

About La Crosse Blufflands South— Easter Road Trailhead (Hass)

From the Easter Road trailhead, near the south end of the beautiful La Crosse Blufflands, enjoy a cool and shaded forest walk zigzagging up to a blufftop prairie. The trail takes you along springs and seeps and among woodland wildflowers and ferns. The blufftop provides views of both reconstructed prairie in a former agricultural field and native remnant prairie on a south-facing slope. The entire site presents ample opportunities for hiking, birdwatching, and nature photography. The land is mostly wooded and provides scenic views of the Mississippi River, the City of La Crosse, and the Minnesota blufflands.

The 118-acre property was formerly owned by the Gerald and Edward Hass families of La Crosse and was included in the La Crosse Blufflands Protection Program. The program was a unique partnership between the Conservancy and the City of La Crosse that preserved lands with natural, scenic, and recreational value, ensuring that the beauty of the City's landscape is not destroyed by poorly planned development.

Permanently protected by Mississippi Valley Conservancy. Owned and maintained by the City of La Crosse Parks, Recreation & Forestry.
